MEMORANDUM DECISION ON TRUSTEE'S MOTION FOR PARTIAL SUMMARY JUDGMENT

INTRODUCTION

In this adversary proceeding, R. Todd Nielson, the trustee of Cedar Funding, Inc.'s estate, seeks to avoid certain assignments of deeds of trust that CFI recorded in favor of hundreds of investors who have fractionalized interests in seventy-four separate mortgage loans that CFI originated. The trustee has moved for partial summary judgment with respect to fifty-nine of the deeds of trust asserting that the assignments were recorded either during the ninety day preference period preceding CFI's bankruptcy or after the bankruptcy was filed and constitute preferential transfers within the meaning of 1 § 547(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. If the assignments are avoided, the investors will join the pool of 2 CFI's unsecured creditors.

4 PROCEDURE ON SUMMARY JUDGMENT

5 The standards and procedures for granting partial summary judgment, also known as summary 6 adjudication, are the same as those for summary judgment. See Calif. v. Campbell, 138 F.3d 772, 780 7 (9th 1998); Continental Insur. Co. v. Cota, 2010 WL 383367 *2 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 27, 2010). Partial 8 summary judgment “upon all or any part of a claim” is appropriate when the evidentiary proof offered 9 by the moving party shows that there is no genuine issue of material fact as to the specified portion of 10 the claim and the moving party is entitled to a determination as a matter of law. Celotex Corp v. Catrett, 11 477 U.S. 317, 322 (1986); Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 56. A plaintiff moving for summary judgment must 12 demonstrate all elements of its claim to prevail. Lockwood v. Wolf Corp., 629 F.2d 603, 611 (9th Cir.
13 1980). To avoid the fifty-nine deeds of trust at issue, the trustee must provide evidence establishing 14 each element of a preferential transfer claim as to each assignment.

15 Some defendants have alleged affirmative defenses to the trustee's complaint. Because 16 defendants bear the burden of proof as to their defenses, the catalog of defenses listed in their answer, 17 without more, is insufficient to avoid summary judgment. Johnson v. Georgia-Pacific Corp., 2009 WL 18 1311896 at *2 (9th Cir. May 12, 2009); In re MarchFirst, Inc., 2007 WL 4105816, at *5 (Bankr. N.D.
19 Ill. Nov. 15 2007), citing, Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324, 106 S. Ct. at 2553. At a minimum, they must offer 20 sufficient evidence to raise a triable issue of fact as to each element of any defense that they want to 21 pursue.

23 FACTS

24 Many facts regarding CFI and its operations are recounted in Rollins v. Nielson (In re Cedar 25 Funding, Inc.), 408 B.R.299 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2009). To the extent applicable, those facts are 26 incorporated herein with repetition only as needed to properly understand the events pertinent to the 27

1 pending motion for summary judgment. Only seventy-five of over three hundred and eighty affected 2 defendants have opposed the trustee's motion for summary judgment. The facts, as taken from the 3 evidentiary materials submitted by both sides, are stated in a light favorable to the defendants as 4 required by the standards for summary judgment.

5 Prior to bankruptcy, CFI was in the business of making loans secured by trust deeds against the 6 borrowers' real property. Its operations were funded by hundreds of investors who gave CFI money 7 believing that they were acquiring fractional interests in the secured loans that CFI originated. Between 8 2004 and early 2008, CFI extended the fifty-six real estate loans listed in Exhibit A to various 9 borrowers. In return, CFI received promissory notes from the borrowers and recorded deeds of trust 10 naming CFI as the beneficiary. The defendants against whom the trustee seeks summary judgment, each 11 gave CFI funds that were to be invested and used to acquire fractional interests in one or more of the 12 fifty-six secured loans at issue.

13 It was CFI's standard practice to deposit funds from investors into a general account known as 14 the "escrow account" that CFI maintained at Wells Fargo Bank and from which CFI funded loans to its 15 borrowers. In the escrow account, all investor money was commingled along with payments received 16 from borrowers. Shortly after receiving an investment, CFI typically made a bookkeeping entry 17 associating that investment with a particular loan. There is no evidence that CFI deviated from its 18 standard practice with respect to the investments at issue herein. At the time of investment, the 19 defendant investors intended and believed that, in return for their investment, they would receive a 20 fractionalized interest in one or more of CFI's notes and in the corresponding deed of trust securing 21 repayment of the note.

22 After tendering funds to CFI, the investors generally received a form acknowledgment letter on 23 CFI letterhead thanking them for their investment in a loan identified in the caption of the letter. While 24 defendants' evidence fails to establish that each defendant affected by this motion received an 25 acknowledgment letter, for purposes of this motion, it will be assumed that they did. The body of the 26 acknowledgment letters indicated that the investors held a specified percentage interest in the captioned 27

1 loan and advised the investors when to expect the first interest payment on their investment. The letters
2 also reflected that certain loan documents were enclosed. The documents varied from letter to letter, 3 but CFI generally enclosed executed copies of the original note and deed of trust between CFI and the 4 borrower, along with copies of several unexecuted documents, including a Loan Servicing Agreement, 5 a Lender/Purchaser Disclosure Statement, a Promissory Note Endorsement from CFI to the investor and 6 an Assignment of Deed of Trust referencing the investor as an assignee. Sometimes, the letters also 7 enclosed copies of the borrower's Uniform Residential Loan Application, a Preliminary Title Report, 8 an appraisal of the property and an investment overview. The letters routinely asked the investor to sign 9 and return both the Loan Servicing Agreement and the Lender/Purchaser Disclosure Statement.

10 Contrary to the norm, twenty-three defendant investors indicate that they received executed 11 Promissory Note Endorsements from CFI with their acknowledgment letter. Those investors include:

	Note #5543	James Moore, trustee	endorsement dated 9/19/07

1 Note #5578 James Hage endorsement dated 1/24/08
2 Barbara Johns endorsement dated 1/24/08

3 Defendants also assert that a few of the note endorsements were accompanied by executed Assignments 4 of Deed of Trust bearing the same date as the endorsement.

5 Every time the investors contacted CFI, CFI treated them as if they owned a fractional interest 6 in the loan in which they had invested. Additionally, after CFI associated an investment with a 7 particular note, it began to make regular monthly interest payments to the investor. CFI sent out interest 8 payments to its investors even if the borrower on the loan was not making loan payments. The 9 defendants who responded to the trustee's motion each received monthly interest payments from the 10 time of their investment through March 2008. Starting in April 2008, however, CFI stopped all interest 11 payments to its investors.

12 During the first five months of 2008, the California Department of Real Estate and the California 13 Department of Corporations instituted investigations of CFI and its sole shareholder, David Nilsen. On 14 May 16, 2008, the DRE suspended Nilsen's real estate license due to multiple and continuing violations 15 of California's Business and Professions Code, which included the failure to execute and/or record 16 assignments of deeds of trust naming the individual investors as beneficiaries. In an apparent attempt 17 to save his real estate license, between April 14, 2008 and May 21, 2008, Nilsen had CFI execute 18 Assignments of Deeds of Trust reflecting the fractionalized interests that each of the defendants held 19 in the loans at issue. These executed assignments were then recorded with the appropriate county 20 recorder's office. The record dates range from April 21, 2008 to September 9, 2008. In each case, the 21 fractional assignment of CFI's deed of trust was recorded either within the thirty-five day period 22 preceding, or sometime subsequent to, CFI's May 26, 2008 bankruptcy filing .

DISCUSSION

To succeed on summary judgment, the trustee must provide undisputed evidence showing that the fractional security interests that CFI assigned to the investors constituted an interest of CFI in property and that the transfers of those interests 1) were for the benefit of a creditor; 2) were on account of an antecedent debt; 3) were made while CFI was insolvent; 4) were made within 90 days of CFI's bankruptcy petition; and 5) would allow the receiving creditor to receive more than it would under a chapter 7 liquidation, without the transfer. 11 U.S.C. § 547(b). The trustee has satisfied this burden.

With respect to the fifty-six loan transactions at issue, CFI received promissory notes from each of its borrowers. The borrowers also executed deeds of trust, naming CFI as beneficiary, to secure repayment of the notes. Both the deeds of trust and the promissory notes in favor of CFI constituted "legal or equitable interests of the debtor in property." 11 U.S.C. § 541(a)(1). As a result, there is no serious challenge to whether the fractional security interests that CFI transferred to the defendants constituted an interest of CFI in property.

Turning to whether the transfers effected by the assignments of the deeds of trust were for the benefit of a creditor and were on account of antecedent debt, defendants' own submissions indicate that CFI promised to transfer fractional interests in the notes and deeds of trust to the defendants in return for their investments. There is no dispute that each defendant invested thousands of dollars with CFI. Until CFI accomplished the transfers, the defendant investors were creditors of CFI entitled to the conveyance of their fractionalized security interests in the loans, which is why the trustee has referred to the transactions as "failed sales." When the transfers eventually occurred, they were clearly on account of antecedent debt because the defendants had been entitled to receive their fractional interests since the time of their original investment.

Based on the opposition papers filed by seventy-five of the defendants, the only real dispute is whether the transfer of the defendants' secured interests in the underlying loans took place during the 90 days immediately preceding CFI's bankruptcy, a time period when CFI is presumed to have been insolvent. Defendants contend that CFI transferred full ownership of their secured interests outside of

1 the preference period in one of two ways: First, they urge that CFI transferred the promissory notes to 2 them prior to the preference period, either by executing a Note Endorsement in favor of twenty-two 3 defendants or because the endorsement was executed by integration into a signed acknowledgment.
4 Alternatively, defendants assert that summary judgment is unwarranted due to questions of fact as to 5 whether they have an equitable lien that pre-dates the preference period. Neither argument is persuasive.

6 I. Note Endorsements Outside the Preference Period Do Not Preclude Avoidance of the Liens.

7 Section 547(e) of the Bankruptcy Code governs whether or not a transfer is made within the 90 8 day preference period. According to its terms, for avoidance purposes, a transfer is made:

9 (A) at the time such transfer takes effect between the transferor and the transferee, if such transfer 10 is perfected at, or within 30 days after, such time;

11 (B) at the time such transfer is perfected, if such transfer is perfected after such 30 days;

12 (C) immediately before the date of the filing of the petition, if [a transfer perfected after such 30 13 days] is not perfected at

(i) the commencement of the case.

14 11 U.S.C. § 547(e)(2)(A) - (C). Under this provision, for avoidance purposes, a transfer is not necessarily 15 “made” at the time that the debtor completes an effective transfer to the intended transferee. Rather, the 16 court must also consider when the transfer is perfected to see whether the effective date, or the perfection 17 date, or the filing will control.

18 Perfection, in turn, depends on whether the transfer involves real property or not. 11 U.S.C.
19 § 547(e)(1). Here, the deeds of trust at issue are interests in real property. In re Cortez, 191 B.R. 174, 20 178 (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1995). As a result, § 547(e) dictates that the perfection date for the transfers of 21 fractionalized security interests from CFI to the defendants is the date when a bona fide third party 22 purchaser could no longer acquire a property interest senior to the defendants’ security interests. 11 23 U.S.C. § 547(e)(1)(A). State law determines when it is no longer possible to gain a superior interest 24 In re Lewis W. Shurtleff, Inc., 778 F.2d 1416, 1420 (9th Cir. 1985). Under California’s real property 25 recording system, the priority of conveyances, with an exception for leases that is not applicable here, 26 is determined by time of recordation, not time of transfer. Cal. Civ. Code §§ 1213-1214; Bratcher v.
27

1 Buckner, 90 Cal. App. 4th 1177, 1185 (2001). A “conveyance” includes every written instrument by 2 which any interest in real property is created, mortgaged or encumbered, or by which the title to any real 3 property may be affected. Cal. Civ. Code § 1215. Consequently, a deed of trust, as an instrument 4 providing a security or collateral interest in real property, must be perfected by recordation to be binding
5 on subsequent purchasers without notice. Cortez, 191 B.R. at 178. Similarly, any assignment of a deed 6 of trust may be valid as between the assignor and assignee without recording, but it is only upon 7 recording that its priority is perfected and provides constructive notice to third parties to prevent them 8 from gaining a superior interest. Cal. Civ. Code § 2934. See also 4 Miller & Starr, CALIFORNIA REAL 9 ESTATE, 3d ed., Deeds of Trust § 10:39 (2000).

10 Defendants argue that their fractional interests were transferred before the 90 day preference 11 period began because CFI transferred the promissory notes to defendants outside the preference period 12 and the transfer of the debt carried their security interests with it. Cal. Civ. Code § 2936. That argument 13 misses the effect of California’s real property recording system. The defendants are correct that transfer 14 of the underlying debt would have carried the security with it. Id.; 4 Miller & Starr, at §10:38 (transfer 15 of the debt accomplishes the transfer of the security without the necessity of a formal assignment of the 16 trust deed). Mere transfer of the security interests, however, is only valid between the assignors and 17 assignees of the security interests. To be effective against third parties, or “perfected” within the 18 meaning of § 547(e), the assignment or transfer of the deeds of trust had to be recorded. Id. § 2934.

19 Applying the above standards to the facts of this adversary proceeding, the evidence establishes 20 that all but five of the assignments were executed before March 1, 2008. It is also undisputed that those 21 executed assignments were all recorded between April 21, 2008 and September 9, 2008. Thus, they were 22 all perfected more than 30 days after the transfer of the fractional interests became effective between the 23 parties. According to § 547(e)(2)(B), then, all transfers recorded prior to the May 26, 2008 petition date 24 were “made,” for purposes of avoidance, at the time of perfection. For those that were recorded after the 25 May 26, 2008 petition date the transfers are deemed to be “made” immediately before the filing of the 26 petition. § 547(e)(2)(C).

1 With respect to the remaining five notes (Nos. 5023, 5173, 5358, 5533 and 5560), defendants' 2 chart indicates that the assignments were executed in mid-April 2008. Two of those five assignments
3 were recorded more than 30 days after they were executed. As a result, the perfection date is the date 4 the transfer was made. Id. at § 547(e)(2)(B). For the last three, however, the assignments were recorded 5 within than 30 days of the date reflected on the Assignments of Deed of Trust. Viewing this evidence 6 in the defendants' favor, the transfers were "made" on the date set forth in the assignments. Id. at § 7 547(e)(2)(A). Because that date was in mid-April, however, the transfers again were "made" within the 8 90 day preference period.

9
10 II. The Circumstances Of This Case Dictate That The Principle of Ratable Distribution 11 Trumps Any Right To An Equitable Lien.

12 Defendants urge that summary judgment is also inappropriate because there are questions of fact 13 regarding whether the defendants have an equitable lien that transferred the equity of their security 14 interests to them back at the time of their investment in CFI. They reason that only bare legal title was 15 transferred when the trust deed assignments were recorded during the preference period, and therefore 16 their equitable liens are not subject to avoidance as preferences. This argument does not preclude the 17 entry of summary judgment for the trustee.

18 Even if there is a triable issue of fact as to whether an equitable lien could be imposed, caution 19 is required before exercising this inchoate equitable power in the bankruptcy context. In re North 20 American Coin & Currency, Ltd., 767 F.2d 1573, 1575 (9th Cir. 1985). Once bankruptcy intervenes, the 21 right to an equitable lien should be balanced against bankruptcy principles of ratable distribution. See 22 Rollins, 408 B. R. at 314-16. For the reasons explained in the Rollins decision, CFI's bad business 23 practices, including the commingling of investment monies from individual investors with payments from 24 borrowers, precludes the recognition of an equitable lien in favor of any particular claimant. To prefer 25 one claimant by awarding an equitable lien would be unfair to potential competing equitable claims to 26 the same property. Id. at 316.

Further, it would make little sense to impose an equitable lien under the circumstances of this proceeding because any such lien would be avoidable as a preference. As one leading bankruptcy treatise has recognized, “for purposes of Code § 547, an equitable lien is transferred when steps to declare or enforce it are taken and without the benefit of any relation-back principle.” 4 NORTON BANKRUPTCY LAW AND PRACTICE § 66.17 (3d ed. 2008). Accord Cadle Company v. Mangan, 316 B.R. 11, 22-23 (D. Conn. 2004)(finding the analysis set forth in NORTON persuasive). This conclusion is consistent with both the language of the Code and its historical treatment of equitable liens. As already discussed, under § 547(e), a transfer of an interest in real property is deemed to occur only when a bona fide purchaser without notice of the lien can no longer obtain a superior interest. Significantly, no relation back principle is recognized in that standard. Although § 546(b) of the Code limits some avoiding powers by preserving relation back features of state law, § 547 is conspicuously absent from the list of Code sections that remain subject to state law relation back rules. The historical treatment of equitable liens under the preference laws also supports the conclusion that equitable liens do not relate back for preference purposes. See 4 NORTON at § 66.17 (discussing the Bankruptcy Act’s adoption of a bona fide purchaser test for preference laws, which operated to avoid many equitable liens and the subsequent effect of the Uniform Commercial Code, which eliminated the need for special provisions regarding equitable liens). Even though an equitable lien, once imposed, is said to relate back to the time of the conduct creating it, as an unrecorded lien, it only takes precedence over subsequent attaching judgment creditors, not bona fide purchasers. First Fidelity, 60 Cal. App. 4th at 1440-41; Jud Whitehead, 111 Cal. App. 2d at 873. Thus, under § 547 and the facts of this case, the imposition of an equitable lien would not prevent the trustee from avoiding it.

III. Summary Judgment Is Not Otherwise Improper.

The seventy-five defendants who filed opposition to the trustee’s motion for summary judgment finally complain that the trustee’s motion seeks relief that goes beyond the claims alleged in the complaint. However, the trustee, quite simply, seeks a determination as a matter of law that the security

1 interests of the defendants constitute avoidable preferences. A review of the moving papers uncovers 2 no attempt to expand the scope of the complaint.

3 Further, defendants have offered no evidence to support the majority of the affirmative defenses 4 that they have alleged. To the extent that these defenses are not supported by any evidence, they cannot 5 prevent the entry of summary judgment in the trustee's favor. Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324, 106 S. Ct. at 6 2553; MarchFirst, 2007 WL 4105816, at *5.

7 Finally, over 300 defendants have failed to lodge any opposition to the trustee's motion for 8 summary judgment. When an opposing party does not respond to a motion for summary judgment, the 9 motion should, if appropriate, be granted. Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 56(f). Because these defendants have not 10 raised any factual disputes and the trustee has established his entitlement to relief as a matter of law, 11 summary judgment is also appropriate against the defendants who have failed to respond.

12 13 14 CONCLUSION

15 For the reasons explained, the trustee's motion for partial summary judgment is granted in favor 16 of the trustee and against the defendants with respect to the fifty-nine Assignments of Deed of Trust 17 referenced in Exhibit A.

18 Good cause appearing, IT IS SO ORDERED.
